MESSAGE TO STUDENTS

At the end of the last school year I spent a great deal of time talking with many of you about Chapel Hill High School. During that time I met a number of bright, concerned students who were interested in improving your high school. This improvement all of us seek can only take place through hard work and cooperation of all of you.

During the school year with your help and cooperation we are going to attempt to change many things that happen to you during your stay at Chapel Hill High School. Many of these changes will move toward giving you more responsibility for your educational growth.

To make this year a success, the one thing that is most needed is the development of trust among all people in the school community. Without this trust many of the proposed changes will fail.

I wish for each of you a successful year and I am looking forward to working with all of you.

Larry Graham,
Principal

AFS

Chapel Hill Senior High School, like other high schools in the U.S. now participates in a two phase student exchange program with countries abroad. The first phase involves a high school senior coming from his foreign home to live with a Chapel Hill family and to attend CHHS for one year. Secondly, a Chapel Hill student joins a family abroad for the summer before their senior year or for their senior year. To be eligible to compete for the latter part, a student must be a junior and must apply with the AFS club. The students who apply are screened for personality, as well as intelligence, so that the experience will not only profit CHHS's student but the people he or she comes in contact with.

All students are urged to participate in the AFS club. The AFS program is a wonderful happening for students wishing to go abroad. AFS promotes brotherhood and international friendship. Their motto:

“Walk together, talk together
Ye peoples of the earth, For then and only then Shall ye have peace.”

LIBRARY

The library is here for your use. Feel free to consult Mrs. Peacock, the librarian, or any of her assistants with any questions you may have.

The library is always a busy place and depends upon the volunteer help of student assistants for efficient operation. Furthermore, the cooperation of each student is necessary to maintain smooth organization and maximum services for all.

When using the library please observe the following rules:

1. When coming to the library from class, bring a properly signed permit, which states the purpose for being there. This pass is to be left at the attendant desk just inside the main entrance.
2. When leaving the library, please have passes signed at the attendance desk and open books to the date slip to indicate that the books are properly charged.
3. Be quiet and courteous at all times.
4. Always use the main entrance to the library except for classes or for use of the audio-visual equipment.
5. The balcony door is used for faculty use only. Professional books and periodicals are housed near the door.
6. Doors properly marked open into the hall from both the library classroom and the audio-visual room. An attendant will be on duty near the door to take care of any needs concerning A-V.
7. The main floor of the library houses the reference collection, current periodicals, and college catalogs. These materials are to be used in the library only, except with special permission.
8. The balcony houses all books which circulate for two weeks. These books are to be brought to the main charging desk for checking out.
9. If books are overdue, a fine of five cents per day is charged until the book is returned. Books may be renewed each two weeks; overnight books are due by 8:30 A.M. on the morning after they are checked out. Failure to return them brings a fine of five cents per hour. A book depository just outside the door will serve to take care of books to be returned at times when the library may not be open.

10. Lost books are to be paid for by the student, and damages are also charged to the student if he impairs the book while in his possession.
11. Individual study carrels, located on the balcony, are to be used by permit only. Mature students who have special work may secure carrel permits from the librarian.
12. Students who want to do textbook studying during lunch periods may use the library classroom.

The library has a very strong book collection which the students are to enjoy, but increasing enrollments and limited budgets are making it imperative that each student help maintain while they are in his use and returning them on time so that others may share them.

All sophomores will take a two-week course in the use of the library which aims to acquaint them with the organization and to give them instruction in the many types of reference books and other materials.

JUNIOR FOLLIES

This annual first-semester event is the specific responsibility of the Junior Class, in which a group of students recruit the creative energies of the school population toward a two-night money-making venture. Past forms that the Follies have taken include a circus, a Broadway play, a late-night talk show, and of a vaudeville.

among other schools. It involves a variety of sports: tennis, volleyball, badminton, table-tennis, bowling, and basketball. Next year the program hopes to include track, archery, and softball. Its main purpose is to offer all girls the opportunity to participate in both individual and team sports.

Powderpuff Football

Powderpuff football is a challenge for Junior and Senior girls, where the Junior girls attempt to outwit the tricky plays of the Seniors. It is played after the regular football season is over and the date is decided by the Student Council.

CHEERLEADERS

Great supporters of all athletes at Chapel Hill Senior High School are the cheerleaders. The cheerleaders help to promote school spirit and good sportsmanship in all students. Led by the cheerleaders, students are given opportunities to display their school spirit in an organized manner.

There are two cheerleading squads, Varsity and Junior Varsity. The Varsity having twelve members and the Junior Varsity having nine. Cheerleaders are chosen in the spring by a panel of judges.

Requirements for tryouts are a minimum scholastic grade of "C" with no grade lower than a "D" in that semester.
